Logitech Cordless Mouse Headset MK480 Description: The Logitech Cordless Mouse Headset MK480 is a wireless headset designed for use with both PCs and Macs. Tests: The Logitech Cordless Mouse Headset MK480 gives you high-quality sound, comfortable low-frequency audio response, the flexibility to adjust the volume from anywhere and the peace of mind that the cordless mouse is designed for. The computer started out as a means of helping technology development and achieved the performance of the tool with the most uses. It's also a popular means of entertainment and learning. Equip it with a pair of speakers, as well as application like NkeybDrum and you can learn to play drums in a fun and easy to use environment. Play and learn in an interactive environment One of the first things that needs to be mentioned is that the application stopped receiving updates some time ago, so you might experience some functionality issues. This is strictly related to the application itself though, your system remaining intact. The application comes equipped with four major sections so you can play and learn various instruments the fun way. You can access all of them through a main window that does not close whilst an included tool is up and running. Visual support with a keyboard layout You can use the application simply to create some beats using your mouse and keyboard with the help of the play mode. The keyboard layout can be brought up so you know what keys to press, but there's sadly no implemented recorder so you can save your jam sessions. Similar in design, the learn mode comes equipped with slightly more options, such as notes display, with audio feedback giving you an idea of how they sound like. Add the possibility to take advantage of default MIDI instruments and a large amount of time is spent only going through all of them. Adjustable metronome and fun lessons For more help, a customizable metronome lets you adjust numerator, denominator, quarter, bar, as well as tempo so you get a sense of rhythm. What's more, an interactive learning method displays components of
