OBT Memo-Nr.Effect of soy protein isolate on blood pressure in type 2 diabetic and obese rats. The effects of dietary soy protein isolate (SPI) on hypertension and atherosclerosis were examined in obese and type 2 diabetic male Sprague-Dawley rats. After 8 weeks of treatment with SPI, mean arterial pressure was significantly higher in diabetic rats (diabetic SPI group, n = 6) compared with nondiabetic rats (n = 6; diabetic control group). However, a further increase in blood pressure was not observed in diabetic SPI rats after additional 2 weeks of treatment (n = 6), although blood pressure in nondiabetic rats increased significantly (p Leflunomide-induced hypo 2d92ce491b
