Christopher Mollard (1914–1998) was a Scottish artist. Born in Glasgow, Mollard studied at the Glasgow School of Art from 1934 to 1937. His first solo exhibition was held at the Gray's Gallery in Glasgow in 1944. Mollard mostly painted large-scale, expressionist paintings of urban scenery and human figures in heavy urban environments, the pictures being produced in layers as if he was creating a photographically-like painting. He is best known as one of the Scottish pointers of his generation. He was also a co-founder of the Glasgow Art Club. Mollard exhibited a number of his works at the Annual Exhibition of the Royal Academy in the 1950s and 60s. His most famous painting was his 1947 painting Sing Sing, which shows the Scottish poet Hugh MacDiarmid being arrested by the police at a public meeting. His painting features the slogan "Imprisoned for speaking out" written on the wall of the arrest, and MacDiarmid is handcuffed to the lectern, with a banner showing the date of his arrest. Mollard is also a co-founder and, from 1960, first president of the Glasgow Watercolour and Oil Painters' Society, and was also a member of the Royal Scottish painters Category:1914 births Category:1914 births Category:1914 births Category:20th-century Scottish watercolourists Category:3623713323
