The 27-year-old Woods, who claims six LPGA Tour victories and an LPGA major title, was announced as champion early Wednesday morning, edging out American Brittany Lincicome by one point. Woods had five birdies on the back nine at the TPC Boston to edge out Lincicome in the final round, in a tense finish. Lincicome, a 26-year-old rookie who had won three times on the LPGA in the past six years, carded 10 birdies and five bogeys on the way to victory, but Woods was never out of it. The win is a huge one for Woods, a longtime figure on the sport, who earned $1.3 million. "It was amazing," she said. "I've had a lot of ups and downs and it's come down to a few points. I'm glad I came through." Lincicome is now tied for fourth in the standings. She has more than $3 million in career earnings, while Woods has about $11 million. "What a way to end a career," Woods said. "I'd give anything to be in this position again." Woods, who is the sixth female golfer to win multiple tournaments on the LPGA Tour, had endured a difficult season at the majors. She shot a first-round, 10-under-par 64 at The Masters, but then struggled to a tie for 31st at the British Open and a tie for 53rd at the U.S. Women's Open. At the U.S. Women's Open, she also tied for 49th in the final round and collected a runner-up finish. On the LPGA Tour, she won three times on
