The team today released Skype 8 Beta 7 for Windows and Mac. Among the many new features are the following: * Send images to people via Skype: There is a new Image Attachment button on the drop down menu of the About and Account buttons. When you press on this you will be asked if you want to send a picture on top of your chat as an image attachment. If you want to send pictures press OK on this screen. The pictures sent are saved to the user's profile and are sent on top of the chat. * File manager: Added a new File Manager button to the menu bar. In here you can open the download manager if you have purchased files that you want to download. When you press this you will be given the choice to open the file manager in the download manager for this browser or to the file manager for the operating system. This is a nice way to let the user open these files in their normal file manager. * Conversation view: When you are in a conversation the new Conversation View button will be displayed on the side of the video window. If you don't want to see this button just click on the bottom of the window and you will be back to the normal video window. * New icons: The new download window has a light blue icon in the top right corner. Also the user interface now has more icons. * Change Skype icon color: If you want to change the color of the Skype icon in the tray just press Ctrl+Shift+F12. * System tray button integration: When you first start

Skype you will be asked if you want Skype to appear in the system tray. Press OK on this screen and you will be presented with an option for Skype 6a5afdab4c
