Rotherham 1-2 Leeds: Championship Play-Offs Live on Sky Sports Rotherham host Leeds on the final day of the Championship play-offs and Sam Allardyce will be looking for the Millers to go one step better than the club who beat them twice in the regular season. Rotherham will be looking to go one step better than the club who beat them twice in the regular season and Sam Allardyce will be looking to make sure that Millers fans will be celebrating come the end of the season. The Millers are looking to win their first playoff final in four years as they bid to emulate the success of their fierce rivals Scunthorpe United who won the title in 2008 and back then Allardyce was in charge at the club. The Millers begin their battle against Leeds on the final day of the Championship play-offs and live on Sky Sports as they look to secure a famous Wembley finish. Allardyce has had a great season in charge at the club as he has steered them to within touching distance of a play-off position and the fans will be looking for the Millers to lift the trophy for the first time in four years. David Wagner knows the challenge the Millers pose and he will be ready to test Allardyce's men and the Millers will be keen to get off to the perfect start against the Championship title rivals. Rotherham have been unfortunate in the playoffs as they have lost against the likes of Wigan, MK Dons and Preston North End in the past and that has led to questions about whether they can pull it off against Leeds on the final day of the playoffs. Rotherham's incredible run of six consecutive Championship play-off appearances has ended and they will want to make the most of this opportunity and see off the challenge of the Yorkshire rivals to lift the trophy for the first time in over
