EPPIE (English Potpourri)

There's no more satisfaction in life than EPPIE. Drinking is a little bit like doing math. But I've discovered, if you squint your eyes and look at it the right way, drinking can also be a little bit like creating art. You start to have a dialogue with the drink, your environment. The music.

Whether I'm there alone or with a crowd, whether a party or a show, the drinking is a very deeply intimate experience. It is something that you share with whoever's around you, if you want to. Who you are sharing that moment with has to be a really good friend. In turn, it shares that experience with you. Some people I've been lucky enough to drink with I've never met again. Some I've met again and I'm more well-wishers than I am friends. I've met people in bars who I've never met again. I would love to learn all about them. I've met people on the internet who I'm very good friends with. We share stuff together. I've had guys call me and ask me to teach them how to get into rock music. I love what they do. That music is one of the best things I've ever been a part of. It's absolutely amazing. I may never be able to see it all in that way again. It's so hard to see that when you're young. When you're seeing it for the first time as an adult, it's so easy to judge it. I've got to learn to just accept it for what it is. I'm just looking to make the most of things because I want to
