Wilhelmina Hanekroot Wilhelmina Hanekroot (3 November 1916 – 24 January 2008) was a Dutch non-conformist minister, pacifist, an anarchist and friend of Emma Goldman. Early life Wilhelmina Hanekroot was born on 3 November 1916 in Amsterdam to Gerrit Hanekroot and the painter Frida Hanekroot. She studied Protestant theology at the University of Amsterdam, where she met the pacifist, anarchist and friend of Emma Goldman, Hugo de Groot. Their engagement was broken by the occupation of Amsterdam in 1940. Career On 15 June 1940 Hanekroot was arrested in the raid of the Bevrijdingsvereniging () by Dutch Nazi militia members in the morning when she was on a pilgrimage with her friend from a two-day national cycle race. She was imprisoned in the Westerbork concentration camp for six years. She was not told of her rights as a Dutch citizen and deportee. During the Second World War, Hanekroot performed religious work as a leader of the Bevrijdingsgemeente Amsterdam en Zeist (), a local community organization. From 1944, her pacifist activities were boosted by Heinz Fromm, a German émigré and a noted pacifist, whom she soon married. He was persecuted by the Nazis but he remained in Germany after the end of the war. In Amsterdam, they adopted the son of the philosopher Hermann Cohen, a friend of Fromm. In February 1947, Hanekroot was arrested in her lodgings in the Jordaan, Amsterdam, again for being too a pacifist, for refusing to sign the letter of emigration. She was sentenced to six months imprisonment. Her husband was also arrested. His arrest contributed to the break-off of the relationship. In 1945, Hanekroot was appointed as the pastor of the Koelverrekerkerk in the neighboring city of Amsterdam-Noord. There she developed as pacifist, collaborated with Emma Goldman and became a member of the short-lived pacifist group Wilhelmina. Fromm and de Groot were her friends and also participated in the group. The pacifist in-group had around 300 members. Hanekroot became a non-conformist and convinced her husband to leave the Roman Catholic Church. She would become the first woman to pastor a Reformed
