Available in all Editions of SharePoint 2013 on both Windows Server and SharePoint Foundation The Sql View Diff tool enables you to compare data in the database with data in the SharePoint database and quickly and efficiently find and fix any differences between the two. When Sql View Diff is used in conjunction with the Sql Server Database Engine Topology Builder, you can compare topology information in SharePoint databases with the topology information in your SQL Server database instances, ensuring that each topology instance matches up with one another, and that the instances are kept in sync as required. The topology builder in Sql View Diff not only enables you to compare tables and columns, it also enables you to compare columns that share similar names or have similar types. It is recommended that you use the above-mentioned Topology Builder, as Sql View Diff only compares columns, and it does not compare data.
