lamhe 1991 full movie free downloadA set of 10 e-bikes will be added to Bengaluru's public fleet, to be used to ferry those injured in accidents. Highlights Bangalore needed an E-bike option to help people injured in accidents Funds provided for purchase of 10 e-bikes through donations Cost of each E-bike: around Rs 20 lakh An e-bike, or electric bike, is a bicycle that is powered by a battery. Developed in Japan in the late 1990s, e-bikes are now available from around five to 10 Indian start-ups. It took the city of Bengaluru 17 years to get its first electric-powered public transport system with the launch of its eco-friendly flixi cab fleet in September. But another innovating idea needed to be thought of to help more people on the streets of the city that's home to the National Centre for Biological Sciences. So on Thursday, a citizen of Bengaluru got a surprise when he or she found a motorised scooter available on the city's online marketplace, offering to be lent out for five hours at a time to anyone who needed. The service, called "5-hour Rent O Bike", had been designed by Ujjwal Mehta, a 36-year-old techie who says he was inspired to roll out the service after watching citizens in Bengaluru using a e-bike to help their fellow citizens after an accident. "I thought why don't we build a platform for e-bikes for people who are injured in accidents, for which they need somewhere to go, and not have to go back to their home," he told NDTV. More than 13,000 people took advantage of his idea in just a week. At the launch of the e-bike service on Thursday, 50 e-bikes were set to be added to the city's transport system. The cost of each e-bike is around Rs 1.7-1.8 lakh. Mr Mehta made the idea possible by raising funds for the e-bike rentals through just 8,000 rupees and Rs 14,000 that he got from friends and colleagues. One of the first citizens to sign up for the idea was Udaya Kumar, 26, a software engineer who was hit by a car in the city. He was also having some back problems. So he signed up to the "5-hour Rent O Bike" service and handed his e-bike to a
