1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a wide-angle lens system, and more particularly, to a wide-angle lens system for use in a compact camera having a zoom lens. 2. Description of the Prior Art The recent trends in compact cameras adopt zoom lens systems having a high zooming ratio for attaining a high picture taking magnification, and the tendency to adopt a wide-angle lens system for achieving a wide angle of view is growing. The practical field of vision for a compact camera with a wide-angle lens system is generally in the range of about 30.degree. to 60.degree.. The photographing field of view on the same focal length of 35 mm film is generally from 23.5.degree. to 39.degree. for a wide-angle lens system. On the other hand, in general, the field of view for a zoom lens is in the range of 39.degree. to 59.degree.. Since the field of vision of a compact camera with a wide-angle lens system is smaller than that of a zoom lens, when a wide-angle lens system is adopted for use in a compact camera, the field of view is usually set wider than the field of view for a zoom lens. Generally, the field of vision is generally narrowed by about 20.degree. in comparison with the field of view for a zoom lens and the variable power ratio is usually 1.5 to 2.0 for a wide-angle lens system, in contrast to 1.8 to 2.4 for a zoom lens. Furthermore, the field of view for the zoom lens depends on the focal length, is in the range of about 30.degree. to 60.degree., and is not uniform with the angle of view. As a technique for narrowing the field of vision in a compact camera having a wide-angle lens system, Japanese Laid-Open Patent Application Nos. Sho 59-176942 and Sho 59-176943 disclose a wide-angle lens system in which three or more lenses are used. In these wide-angle lens systems, the field of vision is still wider than that of a standard lens system, resulting in a decrease in picture-taking magnification and in poor brightness of a photographed image. Further, Japanese Laid-Open Patent Application Nos. Sho 64-5139 and Sho 63-267531 disclose wide-angle lens systems in which two positive lenses are disposed behind one positive lens. In these lens systems, the distance between the
