A: After searching, and making great effort on this I figured out the following. If you use which reroutes you from a blocked page to another, from the window you'll see the following screen, click on the "via" label which will give you an option to clear your previously given reason, after clearing the reason and following the links, you'll be directed to another option, click on your default option, which is 1, then go to the option 1 part link, from there you'll see that your reasons are reviewed by the site, after you've done this press the "review" link. You'll be redirected to another page, review the reasons again and if they're okay you'll see a "unblock" button. Try opening your account once more. You can do this all in 1 min once you're past your review of blocked reasons. If you're blocked on several websites, you have to open accounts again and go through it all, but only for once.
