Veganuary was created by nutritionist and health blogger, Hany Marshek, and aims to encourage people to make the switch from an animal-based to a plant-based diet for the rest of the year. It is not a diet or a diet plan but a lifestyle change and campaign that encourages people to eat a plant-based diet once a month. Why Veganuary? Veganuary was set up by Hany Marshek in 2014 to encourage people to make the transition from an animal-based to a plant-based diet. Hany Marshek knew that many people who went vegetarian or vegan did so in the name of animals, but this didn't seem to translate into lasting change. His mission, therefore, was to create a campaign that would encourage people to make the switch to plant-based eating that would be easy to follow and, therefore, sustainable. This is why he decided to set up Veganuary. The positive effects of a vegan diet on health Veganuary focuses on the benefits of a vegan diet, such as: Reducing your risk of cancer, heart disease and type 2 diabetes Baking with plant-based ingredients instead of dairy Reducing your intake of saturated fats Lowering the risk of depression and anxiety Reducing your intake of hormones, growth hormones and antibiotics Increasing your intake of fibre, vitamins and minerals Reducing your carbon footprint, i.e. improving the environment The vegan diet has proven benefits for your health, and many people look to it for both weight loss and a healthy lifestyle. Changing your diet is never easy and often people are unsure of how to go about it. That is why the Veganuary campaign was set up – to give people the confidence
