Fortunately, if you're a premium Spotify user, you can now enjoy live stream of the great sport events, thanks to the Spotify Live TV app. The app, just as the name suggests, allows you to enjoy live sport events and other content from the Spotify Premium service, via streaming.

The use of the app doesn't require any subscription whatsoever, and it's free to use, too. However, users will need to have an Internet connection, in order to enjoy the streaming content. Now, without further ado, let's see how this Spotify Premium app works. Before you start streaming live content, you'll need to have an account with Spotify Premium. On the app's main page, you can sign in to your account, if you have one. Once you're done, you'll be presented with the main page of the app. It will ask you to select what type of content you wish to stream. There are various options, such as live event broadcasts, as well as radio shows. Choose the content you wish to stream, and start enjoying the content.

You can pause and resume the live stream, should you wish to do so. The app also offers DVR functionality, which enables you to create a playlist for future streaming, if you wish to. As for the quality, the app will stream HD content, on most devices. In the event that the quality is not good, you'll be able to resize the video, via the app's controls. Not all devices are compatible, however, and it won't support Apple TV or other similar KeyMacro is a keyboard macro application, which is intended for everyday use. However, with KeyMacro you are in no way bound to do only what it allows you to do. In fact, the application comes with a bunch of useful settings that can be used to customize it to your liking. KeyMacro allows you to create your own keystrokes, which can be activated at any given time. However, the idea is not to type the same thing every time you want to use the app. Rather, you'll be able to save the keyboard macros to your personal library. Therefore, you'll be able to use them any time you wish. KeyMacro allows for a customizable keybind set, for easy access to your most used functions As mentioned earlier, the application comes with a ton of different settings, which are well presented, easily manageable, and organized. Let's start with the settings. From there, the developer provides a flexible framework that allows you to choose, in accordance with your personal preferences, a customized keybind set, as well as a keyboard font, color, and size. You'll also find a tab, which will enable you to create your own macros. This option will help you configure the application, and the result will appear on-screen after you're done. Of course, you're able to change the text, as well as the arrangement. You'll also have the option to drag and drop it, which is quite convenient. A useful Macro builder, where you can create your own keyboard macros Let's now take a look at the different key macros that are provided in the application, as well as their individual settings. To create a new macro, simply select a function, press Alt-B, and add the keystrokes you want to use. You can also configure the Repeat key, set the delay between consecutive keystrokes, as well as choose whether or not the Macros should be appended with a number, if needed. Another very convenient feature is the option to add macros to your project, and, just as with the other settings, the result is visible. As with every keyboard macro application, you'll also find a list of common functions, which you can use. KeyMacro is a keyboard macro application, which is intended for everyday use. ### What's New in the NoteCable Spotify Music Converter?

Nowadays, the music downloading industry is in full swing. Thousands and thousands of artists and labels have made their full music catalog available online, but it is often quite difficult to find the right track. With the advent of smartphones, you can now not only have your entire music collection on hand, but also listen to your favorite songs from just about anywhere. Among many music players, Spotify is one of the most popular. And while Spotify's online music store has many hundreds of thousands of tracks, only a tiny portion of them can be actually downloaded and listened to offline. This is where NoteCable Spotify Music Converter comes in. With this app, you can download any Spotify song in just a few simple clicks, and listen to it offline. Moreover, you can do it using your favorite Android smartphone, so you do not even need to plug your smartphone into a computer. Indeed, the app will scan your entire Spotify music library, and present a list of all the tracks, available for download, to the users. After that, if you wish, you can select individual tracks or a whole playlist, and this app will offer you to download them. The app also offers you a convenient window where you can preview the download progress, and, once it is complete, the app will automatically play the file for you. Not only that, but NoteCable Spotify Music Converter comes with a nifty settings window, which allows you to define individual settings for each and every track that is going to be downloaded. You can, for example, set the destination folder, where the downloaded tracks will be placed. Similarly, you can set the number of days that the tracks will be available to you, and even the number of times they will be synchronized with your device. Since Spotify is a cloud-based music streaming service, the app does not actually store the files, but simply synchronizes them with your device. If you wish, you can always download the original files from the Internet, and store them on your computer or on a media device. This way, you will be able to listen to your favorite songs without Internet connection. Simple and convenient: NoteCable Spotify Music Converter All in all, the handling, and features on offer provided by NoteCable Spotify Music Converter are quite sufficient for the needs of the average user, as a balance between simplicity and function is well-maintained. This app works just like any other download manager, but with a Spotify-specific skin. At this point, there is no need to go into
