TParamLabel is a TMS VLC component that allows you to display formatted text, enable a filter to narrow your results, and allow editing of formatted text. Many inplace editors are built-in including: normal edit control, spin edit control, mask edit control, popup list, popup menu, datepicker, timeselector, input query, directory picker, and toggle value. A number of useful features are included in the component: Selectable labels enable you to keep your TMS controls searchable while still affording the user flexibility Allows you to display formatted text, enable a filter to narrow your results, and allow editing of formatted text Activate a repaint if a matching label does not appear in the listbox, and optionally allow it to repaint Specify a default label, should the label selected not appear in the listbox Supports Drag&Drop so that the user can remove a label from the listbox, and rename the label Specify how the label is positioned if necessary Active a scroll bar to scroll through the list of labels Controls the width of the label columns Contains built-in text control generation abilities, allowing you to call procedures on the labels Requirements: Delphi or C++ Builder TMS VLC UI Pack TParamLabel consists of the following components: TParamLabel Component TParamLabel is a TMS VLC component that allows you to display formatted text, enable a filter to narrow your results, and allow editing of formatted text.

Many inplace editors are built-in including: normal edit control, spin edit control, mask edit control, popup list, popup menu, datepicker, timeselector, input query, directory picker, and toggle value. Custom inplace editors can also be used. This component can be used from VCL and MFC applications with the VLC API. A property called ActiveLabel allows you to activate a repaint if a matching label does not appear in the listbox, and optionally allow it to repaint. This can be useful if you need to create a multiline label.
The ActiveLabel property defaults to True. Setting it to False causes a repaint to be skipped if a matching label is not displayed, and enabling the ActiveLabel property has no effect if a label is displayed. To repaint the label, call the RepaintLabel procedure:
