Contribute to the development of romanov999/K9-Web-Protection-Copy by creating a GitHub account. Romanov999, the founder of ONYX, started his project in 2012 when he noticed that the developers did not understand how his product protected their code. According to him, many developers do not know how to protect their code with built-in security in their projects, which, in his opinion, is bad. This causes 3rd party security tools to be unable to set basic protection for applications, which means that user data can
