

Inno Setup XDELTA Patch Maker is a small utility that allows you to generate update patches for various types of applications. It is designed to analyze the changes you made to the program and generate an update patch that automatically installs any changes made to your application. Moreover, Inno Setup XDELTA Patch Maker allows you to set the properties of the update patch, such as the author, the properties of the unpacking program and the version of the patch, as well as the language of the patch and the required number of backup files. In other words, the tool lets you craft update patches for any software that supports XDELTA files. The utility is easily configurable and user-friendly. Therefore, you can specify several options such as the XDELTA compression level, software to which you wish to apply the patch, the patch name, the date of creation and contact details. Moreover, Inno Setup XDELTA Patch Maker allows you to enter your own settings, as well as the paths for the previous and modified applications. Furthermore, the tool allows you to configure whether to automatically detect the path of the input file or to include the directory into the list of paths. Should the choice be left empty, the tool will automatically detect the file and enter the path of the input file. In addition, you can specify how to detect the change log and application properties and document them in the project. Moreover, you can manually enter the name, the version of the patch and the product title for the released update.

by JRFSOFT.COM Price: Free Size: 8532KB Description: Abotjhana is a small tool for the creation of an automated mail signer. The application will sign your e-mail and adds a unique timestamp to the delivery receipt of your recipient. Generate and use templates of your sending system The tool allows you to generate a template with the unique ID of your sending server. Then, you are able to create and use templates from the generated database. The tool allows you to easily generate a template for each system and access the required information. After the template is loaded, your message can be generated by using a unique ID and a timestamp. Inno Setup Abotjhana is designed to be intuitive and easy to use. Moreover, aside from the name of the sending server and the fields you wish to enable or disable, the tool only requires you to specify the unique ID of the sending system and an optional timestamp. The tool also allows you to upload your credentials directly. If you decide to go with the default settings, the application will automatically sign your messages. Should you wish to modify any field, you can edit the template directly in the database. Supports all major sending systems and client applications Inno Setup Abotjhana is compatible with all major sending systems and is fully functional with a wide variety of e-mail client applications. It is also able to use text files, HTML documents and rich text. Create a new template To create a new template, simply click on the "Create a New Template" button. The application will then run a checksum of your credentials and generate a unique template ID. You will then be prompted to choose the sending server ID and the timestamp of the message. After the template is created, you are able to generate a message. After this, you will be asked to upload your credentials. Use the template for your messages After your template is created, you are able to send your message. Instead of specifying the unique ID of the sending server, you can simply select the template for your message. The application will read the unique ID of your sending server and automatically sign your message. Inno Setup Abotjhana
