For those of you who might not be familiar with the Web site MangaGamer, here's a little about it: MangaGamer is the website of a small, independent company. With a staff consisting of only three people - one of which is actually in the hospital for the next few months - MangaGamer is only able to release games during the Spring and Fall every year. That means that the only games it has been able to release so far have been as part of the Humble Bundle. The Humble Bundle doesn't just give us some great games for a few dollars each. It also gives us over a million dollars worth of bonus games that come with the games from the main bundle! The reason why this Humble Bundle is so great is that half of the money we earn goes to the five charities: Doctors Without Borders, Children's Hospital Charity, Living Nations, NARN, and National Breast Cancer Foundation.
