SterJo Wireless Passwords Crack + Free [Win/Mac]

SterJo Wireless Passwords application is a software utility that allows you to recover lost or forgotten wireless network passwords. This Windows program can search for the presence of all detectable wireless networks and scan the content of each of them. Scanning takes place automatically upon connection to a wireless network and can be repeated by pressing the button. All found passwords are displayed along with relevant parameters: IP address, encryption mode, network name and authentication method. In case the password is recovered, the program will display it in plain text. You can set some details about the recovered network, including the network name, password and encryption mode. This password-recovery software will work with all operating systems that support Wireless Zero Configuration (WZC) network monitoring, including Windows, Linux, Netware and MacOS. ======== SterJo Wireless Passwords is a software designed to analyze the WLAN AutoConfig or the Wireless Zero Configuration services in order to find entries that could match a possible user password. The program works by analyzing data retrieved from the Network Interface Card. It analyzes data stored inside the Wireless Zero Configuration Service and as soon as the found password matches one of the existing entries, it is displayed within the user-friendly interface. SterJo Wireless Passwords is very easy to use and as soon as you launch it, it starts scanning the available networks in order to find login data. The identified networks are displayed in an organized manner within the user-friendly interface, along with the found password, the corresponding authentication mode and encryption method. Retrieved passwords can be used for allowing other wireless-enabled devices to connect to your network. The results can be copied to the clipboard with just a click or saved to your computer in TXT format, for later use and reference. With the push of a button, you can refresh the network list in order to run the scan once more. On Windows XP, the recovered login key might be in 64 HEX digits, in case your network uses WPA encryption. However, this key can be used as a regular password. SterJo Wireless Passwords comes in handy to any user who lost or forgot the password to the wireless network. It offers a quick and secure way to recover it, allowing other devices to join the Wi-Fi, without worrying that the login key might get lost again. SterJo Wireless
