KEYMACRO is a shortcut-aware clipboard manager. It has a clear and easy to use interface which is accompanied by a great variety of useful features that enhance its capabilities. As its name suggests, this application functions as a kind of keyword-aware clipboard manager that can be used to copy selected text or files to the system clipboard. KEYMACRO can also be used as a scheduler to power your computer on/off, restart, shutdown, logoff or lock screen. In addition to this, you can use it to perform computer backup. Also, it enables you to copy files and folders from one drive to another or between computers by directly dragging and dropping from one drive to the clipboard. Furthermore, it enables you to specify a global shortcut for the shortcuts you copy or drag and drop to the clipboard. You can set different global shortcuts for different files or folders that you copy or drag and drop to the clipboard. Also, it gives you an option to define shortcut keys that you can set as per your choice. Furthermore, it can be used to perform computer backup and restore. KEYMACRO's interface has been designed in such a way that it provides an efficient and clean way to look for files, copy them or perform computer backup or restore. Its key features are as follows: • Copy files to clipboard by drag and drop • Computer backup and restore • Copying files or folders to clipboard • Specify shortcut keys • Setting global shortcuts ALEX SIMMS: Professional Author & Editor at IT Skills Review]]> A: I am not sure what the editor is, but if it is the VS.NET IDE, then the built-in Paste service is used to paste to the clipboard. This is what you see in the menu when you right-click the VS.NET editor (it's the default). Passing a bill in the US Senate is no easy task, but not many bills have enough support to achieve this goal. After all, on Thursday, the Senate took a final vote on a non-binding amendment to ban commercial whaling. In a fairly lopsided 50-to-48 vote, the Senate passed a ban on commercial whaling. According to the Washington Post, in a secret ballot of 50 votes, only one senator voted against the 80eaf3aba8
