 service to the CBD will be upgraded to a daily schedule from early June. Water giant Sydney Water will play a major part in a major clean-up of the Sydney CBD as part of an urban water upgrade project. Sydney Water is currently installing metering at a major water storage tunnel in the CBD, which will allow the metro area's water supply to be more efficient and reliable. But Sydney Water is also planning to spend $2.1 million on a daily supply of water in order to help improve the health of the $2.1 billion a year service. The supply will be pumped from the Tarana Basin, around the M4 motorway and into the city's Carrington Street Basin. It will be maintained every day between 8am and 6.30pm, in line with 3e33713323
