When a short-circuit current occurs in the electrical power cable, the side covers transfer a force to the ribs and facilitate the ribs to attenuate the short-circuit current flowing through the electrical power cable. In this case, the short-circuit current flows from the electronic device, the wire end may be electrically welded to a wire of the electrical power cable. In this case, the short-circuit current flows from the electronic device, the wire end may be electrically welded to a wire of the electrical power cable. In this case, the short-circuit current flows from the electronic device, the wire end may be electrically welded to a wire of the electrical power cable. through the wire of the electrical power cable. The ribs may only attenuate a part of the short-circuit current, and the remainder of the short-circuit current may flow from the wire end. Thus, the ribs have less capability to attenuate the short-circuit current may flow from the wire end. Thus, the ribs have less capability to attenuate the short-circuit current. What is needed, therefore, is a power cable assembly which can overcome the above-described shortcomings. 5 0 * b * * 2 - b + b * * 5 - 4 1 5 * b * * 2 + 2 8 * b * * 3 = 0.0, 1, 2 F a c 1cb139a0ed
