The reduction of alkynes and 2-pyridones was achieved in the presence of modified porphyrins having a pyridine unit via an enzymatic approach. The optical resolution of acetophenone was performed in the presence of modified porphyrins. Co-catalysts, such as pyridine and hydrogen sulfate, played a crucial role for the selective reduction of acetophenone, although no enantioselectivity was observed without the co-catalyst. This protocol afforded the corresponding optically pure product in excellent yield and ee value.Q: Passing multiple variable from one activity to another activity I am new to Android.
