The main advantage of WorldCast is the fact that it allows you to send emails from any address (so, you don't actually have to be its owner). We definitely recommend this tool to all users. After seeing a positive review of WorldCast, I decided to try it myself, along with CCleaner Pro and BleachBit. It did not have an option to save multiple projects. WorldCast has an easy and user-friendly interface, and it allows you to send emails. The program has a very useful wizard, which allows you to select different configuration settings. There is also a preview function and a spell checker. For instance, I was able to quickly import an HTML file and create an email with the results. This was a very useful feature, and I was even able to send a bulk email from a website with multiple contacts. It does not have a text file editor, but there is a "Find and Replace" option. This allowed me to quickly and accurately replace multiple phrases with new ones. I also liked the fact that you can export projects
