What are the best ways to drive more traffic to your blog or website? This is a big question for many, and many of the most popular (and often free) methods of promotion are not necessarily the best. However, the following methods truly work for almost everyone and are less-obvious methods that don't need to be "sprayed" throughout your blog like you might be used to. Surround Yourself with Great People Are you surrounded with great people? As much as you would love to think so, chances are that this is not the case. You don't need people who are great at what they do to make you successful. The most important thing is that you have people that make you want to be a better person. Do you want to have people that can help you with your projects or keep you inspired? Is your work good, but you can't get a personal message from your boss in return? Is your job difficult, or when you ask for an extra hour of work, do you get an hour in return? When you surround yourself with the right people, your goals are far easier to reach. By having amazing people around you, you are far more likely to give your best to your job (and yourself), and people will notice this. People will like you more, and you will like yourself more. Join a Community Another surefire way of driving a good amount of traffic to your blog or website is to join a community. Community driven sites have a higher chance of having followers and a higher chance of having readers because the community is invested in the site. When you join a community, you share the passion of the members and it shows. When you become a part of the community, you can also become a leader and get feedback of how you can improve your work. That is how you get far better at what you do. Join a community of people who share your passion, and who like what you do. You will soon learn to
