Â Using both TinyDB and TinyJSON we have created an SMS library. Â Simple library to send files via SMS. Q: C++, shared pointers, and.emplace I'm trying to make sense of the behaviour of shared_ptr with the emplace() member function. I'm unclear on the following example code and i'm hoping someone can help me out. void PrintThing(const std::shared_ptr& spThing) { std::cout << spThing << endl; } //... //create shared_ptr // thing.reset(new Thing()); PrintThing(thing); PrintThing2(thing); thing.reset(emplace(thing)); PrintThing(thing); PrintThing2(thing); //... I run this code and i get the following output: //output this not a const thing not a const thing const Thing not a const Thing not a const Thing not a const Thing not a const Thing not a const Thing Why do i get the output, 'not a const thing' for both PrintThing(thing) and PrintThing2(thing), yet when i set the pointer to emplace i get the output i would expect, i.e. 'const Thing'. What i'm expecting to happen is that PrintThing would print 'const Thing', as we're storing a const reference to an empty shared_ptr. Another question i have is this: PrintThing(const Thing& rSrc) i.e. void PrintThing(const std::shared_ptr

After downloading the setup file, it's also necessary to extract the contents of the ZIP archive and there is a tutorial on how to do that here. Also do not forget to check the mirror sites, which you can easily find if you go to the installer ZIP file's directory. Something to note: If you are using 7z then you need to use an archive manager that supports the ISO linked format. Windows Zip or 7Zip for example. There is a chance that the installation might fail. If that happens then you will need to go into the program settings and make sure the following options are ticked, Launch this application in Stand-Alone mode. Do not launch this application in the background. Do not show a splash screen during startup. When you have finished launch the application. In the application's main window you will see a window saying: "Loading catalogue information for this application..." Once the window has loaded, go ahead and click on the Text Files icon, which will reveal the files: "catalog.txt" and "mods.txt". Click on the catalogue.txt file, and then click on the Update button. If there are any updates to the system files then they will be listed. If there are any updates available you can download them, otherwise leave the Update button greyed out.
