If the application detects that the user is logged on to a regular user account, it is capable of creating student e-mails, containing detailed grades in a report, in a TXT format. The user has the option of sending the report to a specified e-mail address. The software is capable of storing information on the student's report in a comma-separated text file. The software comes with a user-friendly interface, so it is very easy for users to create student reports. Furthermore, if the user wants, they can adjust the number of subjects and the roll length to use it for future reports. However, the software only allows the user to generate a single TXT file for each roll, because of the limitation of storing information related to a single student. Thus, the user needs to select a roll name and set parameters for each individual student. The software automatically logs the user out after the report is created. Therefore, the application is capable of storing reports for a single roll, only. Overall, Student Data Management System is a useful tool for storing detailed information about a student's report card. Unique Software installer for the first 30 days, free of charge. This is a ready-to-install.jar file that contains two demo apps: RAM Write Cycle Animation (for Mac) and RAM Write Cycle Animation (for Windows). Sated is a simple music player that can be used to play music from other players. You can use it as your own playlist manager. Requirements: ⬚ Java 1.5 How to use Sated: ⬚ Double click on the Sated icon to start it up. ⬚ Click on "Add" to add new music sources. ⬚ Select music sources one by one. ⬚ To add music files, choose "Add files" from the list. ⬚ Select the music sources by dragging them to the player. ⬚ At the playlist window, you can see the current playlist. ⬚ To delete a music source, select it and press the "Delete" button. ⬚ To change the name of the playlist, select the playlist and press the "Change Name" button. ⬚ Press "Play" to play the current playlist. [Editor's Note] To delete all music from the player, right-click the tray icon and select "Delete playlist." The Final Cut Pro X Preferences Window FINAL CUT PRO X PREFERENCES WINDOW Like most products from Apple these days, Final Cut Pro X carries its own preferences window. The window is rather straightforward, showing lots of useful information, including: ⬚ a brief description of the app's working features; ⬚ a warning and information message when actions are called, but not linked to the menu (e.g., "saving in this format is temporary and the video data will be discarded" ⬚ a description of the menu categories. If you click the "Help" button in this window, you will be directed to the user guide. This is a bit of a shame, as a bit of coding could have generated a page full of information, thus saving the user from a fair bit of scrolling, as well as a bit of unnecessary time. In addition, you can change some of the default preferences. To do so, open the preferences window via the app's menu (by choosing "Edit » Preferences") and click the "Default" button next to a category. If you've changed some of your pre-set preferences, your changes will be displayed in the "Default settings for all below."
