Q: How to add a bar chart to the top of a column chart in highcharts I'm new to highcharts, but I was wondering how to add a bar chart to the top of a column chart, so that the bar chart displays above the column chart. In this example (code below), the column chart displays above the bar chart. I have no idea how to reverse this, so that the bar chart displays above the column chart. Thank you for helping me out. fiddle A: Set opposite: true to top: true top: true, right: 10, opposite: true It's perhaps not the most accessible brand — enter the name of the site or product and then tap the triple heart symbol in the top right-hand corner. You can change the appearance of the Android-flavored interface to suit your taste, from the minimalist Google Back or All-the-icons-and-no-flyout and the Material Theme (below) to the rather snazzy Holo, and there are many other customizations as well. I'm working with a python server which takes orders for books. I need to send a picture of the book to a phone, so it can be ordered in real time. Q: Powershell Substring with Environment Variables I have the following Powershell command $ip_from = "10.10.10.1" $ip_to = "10.10.10.255" $out_ip = Get-NetIPAddress -InterfaceAlias "$ip_from" !? {$_.IPv4Address -like "$ip_to*"} | select -ExpandProperty IPAddress Write-Output $out_ip The problem is that when running the script on a machine that has multiple environments (DEV, UAT, PROD) I need to dynamically change the $ip_from value. Is there a way to do this using a variable and not have to repeat the command for every environment? A: You can use an automatic variable to hold your IP value, and replace it with a different value as needed for the different environments: $ip_from = "10.10.10.1" $ip_to = "10.10.10.255" $prod = "10.10.10.0" # Replace the $prod value with whatever your prod values are. $prod = [environment]::MachineName $ip_from = [environment]::GetEnvironmentVariable('IPADDRESS') # Write-Output $out_ip $out_ip = Get-NetIPAddress -InterfaceAlias "$ip_from" !? {$_.IPv4Address -like "$ip_to*"} | select -ExpandProperty IPAddress Write-Output $out_ip The alternative is to create a set of functions or a custom tool to automatically determine the $ip_from value for each different environment. As an example, you could create a function like this: function get_ip_from { param([string]$ip_from ,[string]$ip_to) $ip_from = [environment]::GetEnvironmentVariable('IPADDRESS') if ($ip_from -eq "PROD") { $ip_from = [environment]::MachineName
