Using various forms of body sculpture as a vehicle for expressing and expressing psychic, esoteric and universal matters, the exhibition delves into the matter of human existence. Göttergreen's work is predominately based on the figure, as is the case in his most recent commission for the exhibition. Here the artist has constructed an entire world in the form of a woman's head and body. This reconstruction is not only a reinterpretation of human form, but it is also an interpretation of the structures of the psyche, and therefore of the psyche of humanity. With the figure of the head, the Swedish artist has undertaken a new journey. For the first time the artist uses his own body for the creation of a sculpture and at the same time offers a new dimension to his work. By doing so he has managed to create something tangible, independent 1d6a3396d6
