Elton John and Leon Russell - Torn.Executive Order EO 13593 – 29 January 2014 (amended) On 29 January 2014, I signed Executive Order 13,593, which amended Executive Order 13037 of 6 June 2008 (as amended) to establish an Independent Office of the Inspector General within the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA). Section 1 of the order establishes the office and outlines its organization and activities. Section 2 of the order provides for the appointment of the office's first inspector general and defines his or her powers and responsibilities. Section 3 of the order provides for the appointment of a deputy inspector general and designates an employee of NARA to perform functions under sections 3 and 4 of the order. Section 4 of the order directs the Inspector General of NARA to submit a report to the president and the appropriate congressional committees regarding the operations of the Office and the use of NARA and certain other executive branch agencies' records and information systems during 2013. I determined that it would be appropriate to establish an Inspector General for NARA because of the Inspector General Act of 1978 (5 U.S.C. App.), which authorizes the President to establish inspectors general for all executive branch agencies; the Inspector General Act of 1978 (5 U.S.C. App.), which authorizes the President to establish a Deputy Inspector General for NARA; and Executive Order 12600 of 12 May 1988 (as amended), which establishes policy and procedures governing the appointment and removal of NARA inspectors general. Executive Order 12600 provides that the head of an executive agency may designate a senior executive with the authority to exercise supervision over inspection, audit, and investigative functions under the authority of an inspector general, if he or she determines that there exists an investigative or audit function within the competence of an inspector general that may be exercised within that agency. Because NARA's principal purpose is to preserve and make available government records that have historical and scientific value, it is a suitable agency for the establishment of an independent inspector general.TEAM. That's what everyone was calling it. And it was the perfect complement to the logo D.E. was unveiling, a logo it had spent the better part of a year and an entire budget of $100,000 recreating.
