So you're planning to spend some money online, but you're not sure whether or not you're getting the best deals. This extension was designed in order to help you decide. All you need to do in order to start using this add-on is to install it on your browser, and then visit the websites that you are interested in. Once you've installed the extension, you can then quickly filter the results by sorting them by the price, currency, or by the time until the deal expires. The extension is smart enough to automatically detect all the available discounts, deals, and even coupons and will then present the results to you. If you feel the need to, you can even search for the discounts, deals, and coupons using the extension's search bar. The extension has an in-built preview feature that will let you see what your deal is worth, and at the same time, display the percentage value of the discount. Keep in mind that the extension only displays the websites that are available on your current browser. If you feel the need to access more websites, you will need to install the extension on your separate Chrome browser. Like it? Share with your friends!
