Closer to the palace is the Tower of London with its lesser towers (Tower of Hugh and Tower of Edward), which are connected by a tunnel. The Tunnel of Death is located here, and it is said to have sheltered William Shakespeare on his visits to London. Westminster Abbey Westminster Abbey, historically a monastery for Benedictine monks, was an important ecclesiastical institution throughout English history. The abbey was the burial place of more than two dozen English monarchs, including three sovereigns: St. Edward the Confessor, St. William the Conqueror, and St. Henry III. It is located near the Palace of Westminster, the Houses of Parliament, and Buckingham Palace, and in front of the Houses of Parliament is the Abbey's main entrance, the Painted Hall. Wallace Collection The Wallace Collection is a major collection of art and objects, which were assembled in the late 19th and early 20th centuries by Sir Charles Lockhart, a Scottish businessman, on the ground floor of a 17th-century townhouse in Belgravia, London. It contains paintings by artists including Vermeer, Rembrandt, Velázquez, Rubens, Lely, Van

Dyck and Gainsborough, as well as dozens of outstanding bronze and ivory objects such as Shakespearean theatrical props, Chinese ceramics, delicate Venetian glass, and Italian majolica, among other things. There are also a number of furniture galleries and galleries of objets d'art. The collection also contains the collection of John Gainsborough, the only painting ever bought by Queen Victoria
