A: You are running a couple of trojan programs, most probably the game and motion. But I am not familiar with them or other programs like them, so I would suggest following this guide to get rid of them. Additionally, if you are running Windows XP, you might want to check that your firewall is up-to-date (if it isn't, use the Windows firewall application to scan your system and update it as necessary), and also that you didn't download any malicious files (eg. by clicking on links in e-mails, visiting links in websites or opening attachments). Q: CSS: Floated div doesn't interact with other floated div I have these two overlapping divs: I'm using CSS to put the two divs on top of each other, such that they are pushed in with no space between. div#button1, div#button2 { display: block; width: 100px; height: 30px; border-radius: 10px; background-color: yellow; text-align: center; margin-top: 10px; } However, as you can see, both divs have the text OK: The result I want is for the two divs to be d0c515b9f4

Sweet lord this has been the longest hiatus I've had on my blog. It's been a rough go of things over the past couple of months so I'm happy to announce that I'll be back to my regular weekly blog schedule in the new year. Over the past couple of weeks the wait has been excruciating because my good buddy and fellow writer Joseph Gentile has entered the halfway point of his story (check out The Cosmic Ray Project here for a preview). So, I figured I would start a new article series that will give an update on where each of the Stoker's heroines are in the story. They'll be blogs like the original Stoker blog, except updated monthly to keep everyone on their toes. Here is the first installment: The "Brooklyn" Girl: It's been a rough go of things for Claire all the way. Her twin brother lost his wife on the operating table earlier this year and her mother is slowly losing the battle to Alzheimer's. Worse
