Adjustment layers As you select a photo in the Layers panel, you see adjustment layers—layers that contain the settings for editing and adjusting your photo. Choose Layer>New Adjustment Layer>Levels. The Levels dialog box opens (see Figure 6-1), and you can use this tool to adjust the overall tonal range. (See the upcoming section "Adjusting Brightness and Contrast.") Figure 6-1. The Adjustment layers that have been created for this image provide basic editing and adjusting options, such as Levels adjustments. They are similar to what you would find in a photo editor such as Adobe's Photoshop. For example, in Figure 6-1, the Composite check box enables you to add a clipping mask so that your adjustments don't apply to other parts of the photo. If you click OK, the Levels dialog box closes. The Adjustment panel (Figure 6-2) offers three panels. The `_Brightness/Contrast_` panel enables you to adjust the brightness and contrast of the photo. Any image is darkened when you set the Brightness setting to the right; lightens when you set it to the left. You see immediate results, as you can see in Figure 6-3. To make similar adjustments, simply use the slider to increase or decrease the value. Figure 6-2. A drop-down menu enables you to access different effects, as shown in this image. Figure 6-3. The Adjustment panel provides three different tools for adjusting photo brightness and contrast. The `_Hue/Saturation_` panel enables you to adjust the color of

The season finale of RuPaul's Drag Race All Stars 3 airs Thursday at 9 p.m. on LogoTV. After the finale, RuPaul's Drag Race will move exclusively to VH1, where it will launch a new talk show that will feature performances from drag queens in the same vein as The Late Show with Stephen Colbert and The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon. EW has an exclusive clip featuring Drag Race winners Shea Coulee and Willam. RuPaul's Drag Race All Stars 3, which first premiered Jan. 25, brought together the top 10 queens of RuPaul's Drag Race (both past and present) to compete in a battle-of-the-sexes lip sync for their livelihoods, as well as a $100,000 prize. Along with individual "Alaska" and "Texas" categories, the grand finale featured a "Best of the Best" lip sync for the season. All the queens were eliminated except Shannel and Valentina. EW has an exclusive look at the finale's All Stars 2 reunion that looks ahead to the premiere of VH1's new talk show, RuPaul's All Stars Drag Race: What's the Point. In the preview clip, the queens discuss where they are in their lives now, their creative spirits and share stories from the past season of All Stars. "From season two to season three, I've been doing more of what I love, that is comedy, making people laugh, making people cry, doing my thing," Valentina says. "This season is more about being a meme than being a queen." "This is like a year and a half later from a year and a half ago," Shea says. "I'm getting ready to have a baby, so my main focus is being a mom. I'm going to be seeing my baby mama." Watch the video below. Drag Race's VH1 talk show, which will initially be taped in front of a live audience, will be hosted by RuPaul. Rounding out the cast will be Miss Fame, Trace and Blair. The first episode, scheduled to air July 13, will feature questions from the audience about things like race relations in America, the LGBT community, and motherhood. The series will
