Washington (CNN) -- The Supreme Court's surprise decision Monday to rule against a federal gun law in a case in which Attorney General Eric Holder said the law was constitutional was a blow to the Obama administration. Justices found that the law known as the Protection of Lawful Commerce in Arms Act was unconstitutional by blocking the Justice Department from doing an investigation and prosecuting gun makers and sellers suspected of criminal activity, according to court documents. The opinion was authored by Justice Clarence Thomas, an Antonin Scalia-appointed conservative. This is the second time the court has struck down a gun law this term. In the summer, the court struck down the individual mandate of the health care law -- a part of the law that sets in motion a requirement that most people have health insurance. In that case, the justices said it was unconstitutional to impose a fine on people who didn't get health insurance. Brett Kavanaugh, who replaced Justice John Paul Stevens, voted with the majority but did not author the opinion. The decision against the federal gun law should be a wake-up call to both the administration and Congress. The ruling makes it impossible to prosecute gun companies and distributors for what the administration claims is a crime, the Justice Department argued in the case. While the decision does not hurt gun owners, it could have a chilling effect if people believe they cannot trust the government to enforce the law to prosecute gun sellers and manufacturers for illegal activity. The case centered on the federal law, known as the Protection of Lawful Commerce in Arms Act, which was signed into law in 2005. The law is part of a package of measures the administration says is designed to protect gun manufacturers, distributors and dealers from liability in some cases. The law was enacted as the Bush administration was trying to revive the gun industry after federal efforts to enact new gun legislation were stymied by the Supreme Court. President Barack Obama signed the law after he was elected, and his administration continued to enforce it as he tried to move on other priorities. The case, a so-called Second Amendment case that focuses on the commerce clause of the Constitution, reaches back more than four decades to a 1975 decision by the Supreme Court that established the commerce clause as a means for Congress to regulate interstate commerce. At the time, gun manufacturers, distributors and dealers were liable to individuals and states for injuries they caused with illegally made and sold products -- including

[The risk factors for the development of bronchopleural fistulae in connection with bronchial rupture in patients with lung cancer]. Analysis of the clinical data of 60 patients with lung cancer complicated by a bronchopleural fistula (BPF) confirmed that BPF was the most frequent complication of lung cancer surgery (84%). In 14% of cases the fistula occurred more than 7 days after surgery, and in 8% cases more than 14 days. The main risk factors of BPF incidence were: age of 60 and more, complete tumor resection, complicated pneumonia preoperatively. Operative and postoperative mortality in the patients with bronchopleural fistula was 13.3%. Thus, the prevention of the development of BPF in lung cancer surgery should include the following measures: 1) the development of lung cancer operations techniques, 2) the reduction of the risk of perioperative complications, 3) the prevention of BPF development after surgery.

Q: git-bisect prompt weirdly I'm using git-bisect to try to find which commit causes a particular bug that I'm trying to debug. When I run git bisect my shell prompt becomes weird. # git bisect start # git bisect run mysql_5.0.17 test/run.sh all # git bisect run mysql_5.0.17 test/run.sh @x # git bisect run mysql_5.0.17 test/run.sh Then I get these prompts... $ git bisect run mysql_5.0.17 test/run.sh all > "Then execute run.sh" > Run /usr/lib/zsh/mysql-run.zsh: > %here/mysql-run.zsh > > "Then execute run.sh" > Run /usr/lib/zsh/mysql-run.zsh: > %here/mysql-run.zsh > > "Then execute run.sh" > Run /usr/lib/zsh/mysql-run.zsh: > %here/mysql-run.zsh > > "Then execute run.sh" > Run /usr/lib/zsh/mysql-run.zsh: > %here/mysql-run.zsh

A. Brushes A. Effects B. Text C. Halftone D. Pen Tool Brushes allow you to paint or change the appearance of an object on your pictures, creating special effects, or just removing unwanted objects or blemishes. In this tutorial I will be showing you how to use brushes in Adobe Photoshop. 1. How to use a Paintbrush in Photoshop: This tutorial explains how to use a paintbrush in Photoshop. A paintbrush tool contains many, various tips. You can select and place them. You can select more than one tip at a time, and move and delete them all at once. You can also set up different brush sizes. This tutorial shows how to do all of these things with paintbrush. A. Select a Tip You can select any tool tip in Photoshop by right clicking on the brush tool and select 'Select Tip.' The tips are also available from the pull-down menu when the brush tool is activated. B. Brush Size You can change the size of the brush when the tool is active. To do this, click on the middle mouse button to adjust the size of the brush and with the left mouse button select the area to be painted. When the size of the brush is reduced, the brush size is adjusted to the minimum size that will cover the selected area. The size of the brush and the area to be painted can be selected by placing the cursor over the area and then clicking. The cursor will change to a resize cursor and you will be able to resize the brush to the size you want. You can adjust the size of the brush when you are painting by clicking the middle mouse button. This will adjust the size of the brush so that the tip just fits the selected area. C. Brush Size The Paintbrush size is not fixed. You can size the brush as you wish. You can change the size of the brush as you paint by clicking the middle mouse button and resizing the brush by using the mouse. D. Brush Tip Tool You can change the brush tip tool by selecting the tool in the toolbox and using the pull-down menu to select a different one. 2. Brush Settings Using the Brush tool, you can also set up certain brush settings, such as size, color, orientation, and so on. To set up your brush settings: You may want to set
