However, additional therapeutic agents that can prevent or delay AS are desirable. Consequently, therapeutic agents that are used as second line therapy for the treatment of AS such as azathioprine, methotrexate, and cyclosporine are effective in only a limited number of patients with AS and many patients' response to these agents is short-lived. We evaluated the effects of interleukin-10 (IL-10) administration on the expression of inflammatory mediators and the percentage of regenerating axons after sciatic nerve axotomy. Rats were randomly assigned to the following groups: control, vehicle, or IL-10 treatment. These rats underwent left sciatic nerve axotomy or sham operation, and cytokine levels were analyzed at 24 h and 7 days post-axotomy. IL-10 administration significantly decreased the number of ED1+ macrophages at 24 h and 7 days after sciatic nerve axotomy. IL-10 also promoted a slight decrease in GFAP+ astrocytes at 24 h post-axotomy and significantly decreased the number of Bax+ cells at 24 h and 7 days post-axotomy. IL-10 increased the percentage of CC1+ granulocytes and the percentage of MF20+ myelinating axons in the sciatic nerve at 7 days after the lesion. IL-10 administration increased MCP-1 gene expression at 24 h and 7 days after axotomy, and it reduced Bcl-2 gene expression. In conclusion, IL-10 is able to modulate the inflammatory response and promote nerve regeneration after axotomy.We define a phenomenon in which the number of songs by a specific artist is inversely correlated with the number of times the artist is mentioned in song lyrics.
