What's New In?

Hello, I have since tried your program on the brand new 2010 Mac Pro and have not had any problems. I don't have your GUI version on the Windows partition, but I am able to see the Tiller+ screen and click the links, access the sidebar, and navigate to the app options. I have been using the program on Windows 8 Professional and 8.1 Enterprise x64 since October of 2016 without problem. Now, with all my other issues addressed, I am experiencing the same problem with 8.1 Home Premium x64: I cannot install the app on a separate partition. I created the partition as a secondary drive using Disk Utility on Windows 8.1. I tried running the app on the Desktop, USB drive, and USB flash drive. Nothing seems to work. I installed java version 1.7.0u55 on all 3 partitions and set `java.runtime.version=1.7` in `JAVA_HOME`. I even tried to set `-Dsun.java.command.line.switch=/opt/Java/jdk1.7.0_55/bin/java` to the `JAVA_OPTIONS` variable to check if that was what was causing the problem. None of this has helped so far. On the related side, I have tried the Windows 8.1 method of uninstalling Tiller+ and reinstalling to no avail. Also, I have full control of all the partitions that I am installing this app to. I am able to create a folder named "program files", navigate to it, and install it to that drive, but nothing happens after the installation. I get no error message, no pop-up or anything at all. I have several other problems with java that I will elaborate on later, but I had hoped to find someone who has a solution to this issue. I know you are the experts and I hope you can help me with this. Thanks for any help you can give! Sincerely, Matt P.S. I also have to apologize as I may have directed this to the wrong forum. Hi Matt, thanks for the detailed report. Do you have the Windows 8.1 App Store disabled? In other words - if you try to install the app now - would it install successfully? That's what I'd expect. When you use the Windows 8.1 app you can grant privileges to unt
