

How to Find The Best Shampoo And Conditioner For Dogs

Looking for the best shampoo and conditioner for dogs? Several brands offer 'the best' products on the market to choose from, but make sure you got the right one that ensures a safe and effective result. Many brands can be harmful to your dog, so try to always choose a professional salon quality, natural pH balanced shampoo and conditioner for your dog.

When it comes to choosing the best products, you need to know a few things. Make sure the shampoo is specifically developed for dogs. Never use human shampoo on your dog, as these have a different chemical pH that will cause skin irritation; no matter how natural or mild.

Tips to find the best shampoo and conditioner for dogs-

Skin Conditions- All dogs are different, and some will have skin conditions. Your shampoo should be suitable for their skin type, although most skin issues are driven by dry skin, so always look for an ultra-moisturising shampoo first! For sensitive skin, choose a shampoo that is specifically designed for it; soap-free, without parabens and most importantly ultra-moisturising will always be the better formulations. If your dogs have fleas and ticks, avoid such shampoos. Try internal medications like Bravecto or Samparica Trio instead of Flea and Tick Shampoos, as these tend to be too drying - which cause skin dryness and possible itching or worse.

Age- You should know that puppies and older dogs have different needs too. Usually puppies and mature-aged dogs will need a gentler formulation. Puppies skin being new and sensitive, mature-aged dogs being dry and in need of extra nourishment.

Smell- Always consider the smell of dog shampoo and conditioner. Some smells can be unpleasant for dogs. Don't go for something too over-powering, instead go with a light, pleasant scent for your dog. What you find awesome will not necessarily be pleasant for your dog. And do not believe that stronger lasts longer. That is a fallacy.

Coat Luster – Consider the type of coat your dog has, be it a short coat or a long coat. You can use any type of dog shampoo for short-coated dogs while long-coated dogs will benefit from a more nourishing type of shampoo. And, conditioner is a must!
